

DocGo Expands Mobile Health Services to Aetna Customers in New York and New Jersey

January 17, 2022

Leading Mobile Health Services and Transportation Provider Will Reach an Additional 2.5 Million People with New Contract

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jan. 17, 2022-- DocGo, a leading provider of last-mile mobile health services and integrated medical mobility solutions (Nasdaq: DCGO), announced today it signed a multi-year contract to provide mobile at-home healthcare services to Aetna commercial and Medicare Advantage members across New York and New Jersey. With this new contract, DocGo is able to provide a range of at-home healthcare services to 2.5 million lives, including episodic and emergency care.

Taking effect on February 15, 2022, Aetna members that reside in New York and New Jersey will have access to DocGo's team of highly trained healthcare professionals who provide on-demand, at-home healthcare services outside of traditional medical facilities.

"The opportunity to expand our mobile health services to millions of new patients further reinforces our commitment to bridging gaps in care and making quality healthcare accessible for all," said Anthony Capone, President of DocGo. "We're looking forward to bringing our services to Aetna members throughout New York and New Jersey."

With operations in 28 U.S. states and the UK, DocGo delivers Mobile Health services at scale for payers, hospital networks, governmental entities, and enterprise customers to provide high-quality, highly affordable care to patients when and where they need it most. The company's mobility solutions, enabled through highly coordinated logistics and focus on exceptional patient care, give patients much-needed access to medical attention outside of the traditional four walls of the medical establishment. Healthcare services can range from preventative care and chronic condition management to acute and episodic care.
